PROFILE

I am a Business student at RMIT University Vietnam, double-majoring in Logistics & Supply Chain Management and Finance, with a strong interest in supply chain operations, logistics analytics, transportation, and digital transformation. I offer a combination of analytical thinking, financial understanding, and hands-on leadership, backed by experience using Python, R, Power BI, and Excel to analyse supply chain and operational problems. My leadership experience has also built my ability to coordinate teams, manage stakeholders, and deliver large-scale events. I am especially drawn to how data and technology can improve supply chain resilience, efficiency, and decision-making, and my career aim is to work in supply chain operations, logistics analytics, or freight/3PL management, applying both analytical and practical skills to create measurable operational improvements.
